

Newsletter: 14th July 2017

Dear Parents and Carers,

This newsletter will be given over to information to ensure the last week of term runs smoothly. Firstly, all the pupils across the school have met their new teachers today as part of the transition process in preparation for next year. On visiting all classes the children were very excited and are looking forward to September. Please be assured that many hours of thought were given over to creating these classes and decisions were made based on a range of factors including gender mix, ability mix, friendship groups and also some of the pathways the children have had. All areas have been considered and therefore will not be changed. All children have also received their end of year reports today which contain a slip about the arrangements for next year. If you are unsure or have any questions in relation to these there will be an opportunity to discuss these on the celebration afternoon with staff.

Although children will remain in their current class there is the opportunity for parents to pop in to see the new class-teacher. Admittance will be from the side gate where sign in sheets will be prepared. The gate will be open between 2.30pm—2.45pm and again at 3.10pm.
